

brought home for interment.

The Chinese lilies, which our laundryman, Hing Lee, presented to several of our citizens a month ago, have blossomed. The bulbs grow in clear water, put out numerous onion-like stalks which bear white blossoms with a yellow center, and emit a sweet perfume.—Ypsilantian.

The boys are improving their vacation to the best of their ability, and if the